Audience Guide for ESO Students

Theatre is not just a show. It's a live experience and you are part of it.

Why is going to the theatre so special?

When you enter the theatre, you're not just going to watch something—you are entering a space where art happens live, right in front of your eyes.

A theatre show is:

- A creative experience prepared by actors, musicians, designers and technicians
- A shared moment between performers and the audience
- A gift from your school, your teachers, and the theatre company just for you

Before you enter... remember this:

- The theatre is a professional and respectful space
- Your seat has been reserved—please sit where the teacher or staff member tells you
- You are not children anymore. You are young people who know how to be have in public spaces

What's your role as an audience member?

You may think that you're just watching—but you are also part of the performance. Actors feel your presence. Your silence, your attention, even your laughter or your applause—they all affect the performance.

That's why we ask you to:

Stay quiet during the play

Keep your mobile phone off and out of sight

Watch and listen, even if you think "this isn't for me"

Respect your classmates' experience—they may love what you don't

En la Luna Teatro

If the play is not your style, that's OK. But it's the perfect chance to show that you are mature: stay quiet, observe, and let others enjoy.

Please, avoid...

Talking or whispering

Eating or making noise with wrappers

Checking your phone (the light is very distracting)

Laughing at moments that are not meant to be funny

Getting up without permission

Final message:

- Enjoy the play. Laugh, think, feel.
- Let yourself be surprised.
- Theatre is for you—and thanks to your attention, it comes alive.
